LOGAN GOES TO VANDALIA FOR A YEAR

Amboy Candidate For High Offices Must Serve Term

James A. Logan, of Amboy, in private life, a watchmaker of the old school, considered to be an expert in his profession, is today on his way to the state work farm at Vandalia, where he is sentenced to spend at least one year. Politically, Mr. Logan in the past five years has aspired to office, national, state and county, on tickets largely of his own origin.

Sought Many Offices
Under the name of the High Life party, Logan became a candidate for the governorship of Illinois and by his efforts, was largely responsible for the placing of a complete ticket in the field. Unsuccessful as were all of the candidates on this ticket, another party was launched by Logan under the name of the Light Wines and Beer party. Under this banner he sought the office of United States senator and was also a candidate for the position of county judge of Lee county. The utter failure of his second venture into the political world failed to dampen his ardor, however, and the aged watchmaker was launching forth on the organization of a third party when Sheriff Ward Miller and a force of deputies armed with a search warrant entered his place of business last spring and took him in custody on a charge of possessing and selling intoxicating liquor.

Beside his watch repair business, Logan conducted a hotel on a small scale but this was not a successful venture, it is said. He claimed to be the possessor of a recipe for a drink popular before the Trojan war, which was dispensed as was advertised at his place of business at Amboy as "Ambrosia and Nectar, the drink of the Gods."

Sheriff Raids Place
Similar to his political ventures the beverage received a following of a few. It was claimed to restore vim, vigor and vitality and was dispensed at 25 cents per portion. For some weeks, complaints came to the office of Sheriff Ward Miller and State's Attorney Mark Keller as to the conduct of the place. The building was raided late last spring and Logan landed in the county jail.

Took Change of Venue
The aged watchmaker secured legal advice and asked for a change of venue from Judge William L. Leech in the county court where the case had been certified from the circuit court on an information. Judge George D. Long was called in from Rock Island county and heard the case, which was tried before a jury. Logan was found guilty on four counts as contained in the information. Judge Long sentenced him to serve sentences of six months at the state work farm on each of two counts as contained in the information and on the remaining two, fines of $500 and costs each were assessed. Judge Long in pronouncing sentence, held that the defendant serve the one year in the state farm at the expiration of which he should stand committed until the fine and costs on the other counts were fully satisfied.

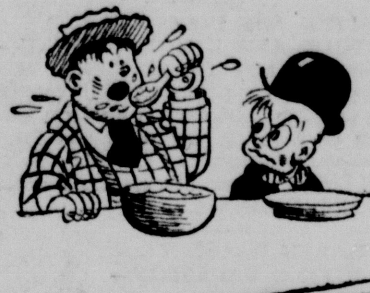

Says Judge Is Doomed
Among other claims made by Logan, was one that any man who acted contrary to his wishes or in any way harmed him, was doomed. He took occasion, upon leaving the court room the day that he received sentence to grumble to Judge Long: "Judge, you have killed me, you are doomed."

Returning to the county jail where he was held for failure to furnish bond, Logan launched into a campaign of letter writing. Letters were written to Governor Len Small, to the state board of pardons, and to many others. It is reported that one letter which was of a threatening character which was sent to Judge George D. Long at Rock Island is now in the hands of government postal inspectors pending investigation.

Last evening, two letters were received by Logan at the county jail from sources to which he had made a last appeal to prevent being removed to the state work farm. One of these was a personal letter from Governor Len Small, who explained briefly that he was powerless to interfere at this time. The other was from the state board of pardons and paroles, which explained that Logan's case had not been presented to that body and that they were not in a position to assist him at this time, and with this letter, were suggestions which instructed him as to the (Continued on page 2)

DEATH LIST GROWING IN OIL BLAST

May Be Twenty Fatalities in Lawrenceville Disaster

Vincennes, Ind., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Nine men are dead and 15 others are said to have only slight chance for recovery from burns suffered yesterday in the explosion of an oil still at the Indian Refining Company plant at Lawrenceville, Ill., west of here. The injured men were brought to the Good Samaritan hospital here. Gas fumes inhaled by several of the injured men, it was said at the hospital, endangered their chances of recovery. Five of the seriously burned were said to be on the verge of death today.

The explosion occurred in one of the company's stills while 150 employees were fighting a fire in an adjoining still. Forty men had started to pick up a line hose to direct it on the fire when the explosion shot a blast of flame over them, burning their clothing from their bodies and in many instances burning the flesh to a crisp.

WERE HUMAN TORCHES

Lawrenceville, Ill., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Nine men are dead, and a dozen more are reported dying from inhaled flames and burns suffered yesterday when the explosion of an oil still at the Indian Refining Company endangered lives of nearly 100 workmen.

The dead were: John Fitch, 19; Henry Johnson, 38; Clyde Moore, 22; Jack Freese, 43; Louis Hensley, 50; C. F. Gaddy, 45; Arlington D. Jackson, 21, and Edward Hinton, 59, all of Lawrenceville and vicinity.

Doctors said several men who virtually became human torches when caught in the path of blazing oil, may be blinded by severe wounds. Sixty-four were taken to the company's hospital at Vincennes, Ind., 10 miles away.

The blast occurred while the refinery's volunteer fire brigade was fighting a small fire in a nearby still. When the second alarm was turned in, employees obeyed company orders and responded to aid, only to be crenched in flaming oil as it shot out of the exploding still. Most of those seriously burned were men who answered the second alarm.

Actual damage to the refinery, it was said, did not exceed $10,000. Group liability insurance was carried for employees, refinery officials said.

DEMOCRATS NOT FARMER'S HOPE SAYS WATSON

He Says Neither Party Will Give the Equalization Fee

Shelbyville, Ill., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Senator James E. Watson of Indiana told an audience today that he believes it will be impossible to obtain the adoption of the equalization fee plan for farm relief, no matter which party is in power.

As he analyzed and attacked Democratic convention plans on farm issues and argued that they failed to harmonize even with Governor Smith's personal views, Senator Watson said it was "unthinkable" for the farmer to hope to secure adequate protective tariff rates through the Democratic party.

Scoring Al Smith's statement after the Houston convention, Senator Watson argued that it "provides no way of escape from the difficulties that surround agriculture."

Whether the equalization fee plan can be adopted or not, the existence of the agricultural interests of this country depend absolutely on the maintenance of a high protective tariff, higher on most agricultural products than we now have", Senator Watson declared.

Farmer Needs Tariff
"The farmer must stick to the protective tariff if he expects to do business in this country, and he must stick to the Republican party if he expects to have an adequate protective tariff on agricultural products."

WINS SALES PRIZE

Lee Francis of this city who was recently transferred to Rockford by the company with which he is employed, has been awarded the prize of a $50 scarf pin for having the most sales reported by any salesman for the company during the month ending July 28. His friends are well rejoice in his success.

Miss Frances Pine left last evening for Rochester, Minn., where she will receive treatment.

THOMAS BOUCHER, PIONEER OF THIS VICINITY, DIED

Palmyra and Dixon Resident Died in Rock Falls Today

Thomas Boucher, pioneer of Palmyra and Dixon, who had he lived until November 18th, would have been 90 years of age, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Earl Williamson of Rock Falls at 1:30 o'clock this morning, death resulting from the infirmities of his age. Funeral services will be held at St. Patrick's Catholic church in Dixon Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock, Rev. Fr. Michael Foley officiating, and with burial in Oakwood cemetery.

Thomas Douglas Boucher was born in Hancock county, Kentucky, Nov. 18, 1838 and came to Illinois in 1852, at the age of fourteen years. He spent his life in Palmyra and Dixon townships until about sixteen years ago, when he moved to Sterling.

He was married on Christmas Day, 1883, to Miss Anna Pike, who passed away Sept. 23, 1894. To this union seven children were born: Mrs. John Ryan, Miss Kate Boucher and Mrs. John Hilbert, who have preceded him in death; John Boucher of Palmyra and Charles and Frank Boucher of Sterling.

He was married in 1898 to Mrs. Hannah Kelly, and to this union one daughter was born, Mrs. Earl Williamson, at whose home he died, who survived with the widow to mourn his passing. He also leaves four step-sons: Arthur, Lloyd, Oscar and Ernest Kelly, one step-daughter, Pearl; many grandchildren, great grandchildren, nieces and nephews.

AUGUST 8 TO BE GOVERNOR'S DAY AT CAMP GRANT

Great Crowds Expected At Rockford to See the Program

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Officers and men of the thirty-third division, Illinois National Guard, who opened a two weeks training period at Camp Grant July 28, now are concentrating on preparation for "Governor's Day," August 8.

On that day, Governor Len Small, Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summer, Chief of Staff of the United States Army, Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, Commandant of the Sixth Corps Area, and other dignitaries will visit the camp. The visitors will review troops and witness military maneuvers which are expected to surpass any peace time demonstration ever held in the state.

Nine army planes from Selfridge Field, Mich., and Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill., will join six national guard planes already at camp in air performances.

General Summerall and Governor Small will speak at night, their talks being broadcast by the National Broadcasting Company. Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keene, Division Commander, expects 50,000 citizens of Illinois to witness the exercises in the Camp Grant's natural amphitheater.

Seek Identity of Low Flying Plane

An airplane which for the past two weeks has been flying quite low over Dixon and has been the source of a great deal of complaint both to city and county officers is to be investigated and the identity of the aviator ascertained. It is expected that the United States department of commerce will be asked to intervene to put a stop to the practice as soon as the identity of the flier is made known.

Chief Van Bibber stated this morning that he had received numerous complaints from north side residents who have reported the plane flying very low and barely skimming the tops of the trees. Sheriff Ward Miller has also received complaints from farmers residing in Palmyra township. The plane it is said, is driven west in the morning and returns in the evening about 7 o'clock, flying at a very low altitude.

The attention of Mayor Frank D. Palmer was called to the situation yesterday and the investigation is expected to be launched immediately.

Suicide's Body Is Found in His Auto

The body of Charles Martin, 35, of 14 West Dexter St., Freeport, who apparently had taken his own life by drinking poison, was found in his Chevrolet coupe on the Forreston-Shannon road at 11:30 o'clock this morning by farmers, who having seen the car parked there since an early hour, investigated. Identity of the apparent suicide was established by cards in his pocket. Coroner J. C. Atkins of Forreston will conduct an inquest this evening.

FORMER GOVERNOR OF KENTUCKY DEAD; HAD COLORFUL PAST

Fled State When His Democratic Rival Was Assassinated

Indianapolis, Aug. 2.—(AP)—William S. Taylor, 76, elected Republican Governor of Kentucky in 1899 and sought in connection with the death of his Democratic opponent William S. Goebel, after the Kentucky legislature declared Taylor's election fraudulent, died in a hospital here early this morning.

Taylor who was vice president of a local insurance company fled to Indianapolis after Goebel was mortally wounded in 1900 by a concealed rifleman.

The Kentucky legislature had declared Goebel the legally elected Governor.

Indiana Governors did not honor extradition papers for Taylor after he fled to this city. He remained here ever since.

The assassination of William Goebel, a Democrat, occurred January 30, 1900, as Mr. Goebel was walking to the old state capitol at Frankfort. A shot, fired from the executive offices in another building, caused his death February 3, four days after he had taken the oath of office.

This shooting followed a heated political controversy. W. S. Taylor, Republican, was declared elected governor in 1899 and, with a certificate from the Secretary of State, assumed office. Goebel contested the election and, in the following January, was declared by the General Assembly to have been elected.

Taylor refused to abide by the decision, and consequently two governments were established—Taylor leading one and Goebel the other. Followers of both flocked to Frankfort and each camp was well equipped. It was during this time that Goebel was shot down on the streets. J. C. W. Beckham, elected Lieutenant Governor under Goebel, assumed office after Goebel's death. The Taylor forces took the case to the federal court in an attempt to override the General Assembly decision. But chief justice William Howard Taft upheld the assembly verdict. An appeal was filed and in May, 1900, the United States Supreme Court upheld Judge Taft's decision. Taylor fled to Indianapolis the same day.

In the meantime, conspiracy to murder charges had been returned by a grand jury against Taylor.

All efforts to have Taylor extradited from Indiana failed, however, because the Indiana Governor contended Taylor would not receive a fair trial. Taylor was pardoned by Governor Wilson in 1909.

CHICAGOANS TO MAKE EXCURSION TO THIS CITY

Chamber of Commerce Wants Names of Former Dixonites

A Sunday excursion from Chicago to Dixon—a reversal of the route of usual week end excursions operated by the Chicago & North Western Railroad—is in prospect as the result of co-operative activities by the Dixon Chamber of Commerce and the General Passenger Agent of the transportation company, and to aid in its promotion the Chamber of Commerce has been asked to obtain the names of all former Dixonites or all relatives of Dixon people living in Chicago who might be interested in such a week-end visit to this city.

The railroad company workers will assume the responsibility of calling on all such who are referred to them and try to interest them in such an outing, and if a sufficient number of patrons can be assured the railroad will operate a special excursion train from Chicago to Dixon on some Sunday, stopping at intermediate points, providing greatly reduced rates to the trip.

According to the Chamber of Commerce is requesting that all Dixonites who have relatives or friends in Chicago and vicinity, whom they might be interested in such an excursion, to call the office, 26, or write the Secretary or Assistant Secretary, John H. Byers or Miss Frances Patrick, giving names and addresses that they may be forwarded soon to the railroad passenger officials.

$100,000 Loss In Soap Factory Fire

Chicago, Aug. 2.—(AP)—A $100,000 fire swept the rendering plant and soap work of the Nine Brother Soap Company in the stockyards early today.

The large quantity of grease used in soap manufacture was fast fuel for the blaze, endangering surrounding buildings.

Spontaneous combustion was the probably cause of the fire, Chief Corigan said.

Mrs. Emil Anderson, of DeKalb, who has been a guest of Miss Alice Byers for several days, went to Amboy this morning with her hostess to spend the day with friends.

WM. S. VARE IS VERY ILL WITH STROKE

Senator-Elect From Pa. Stricken Today At Summer Home

Philadelphia, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Word was received here today that William S. Vare, senator-elect, suffered a paralytic stroke at 10:30 p. m. yesterday at his summer home at Atlantic City.

He has been deprived of the use of his left arm and leg and for a time was unable to speak.

Dr. Ellwood R. Kirby of Philadelphia raced to Vare's bedside at 3 a. m. and upon his return here reported Mr. Vare's condition to be serious.

"The paralytic stroke is not in the most serious form," said Dr. Kirby; "instead of a cerebral hemorrhage there has been an ooze which has interfered with the use of the limbs and speech; we cannot say at this time what progress the disease will make but we are hoping for the best."

Aiding Dr. Kirby in caring for Mr. Vare are two Atlantic City physicians.

Mr. Vare is 60, the age at which his brothers, State Senator George N. and Edwin H. Vare succumbed. At the Vare home his wife and members of the family explained the Senator's condition was grave and telephone calls were cut off for fear of disturbing him.

The illness of the United States Senator-elect came with startling suddenness. Yesterday he was at his office here attending to routine business. His secretary, Harry Snow, who was with him for several hours, reported that Senator Vare's condition then appeared to be unusually good.

POPE POINTS TO MODESTY OF THE EARLY MARTYRS

Urges Modest Dress for Women of the Present Day

Rome, August 2.—(AP)—Pope Pius believes that women today should remember the modesty in dress shown by the women who were among the early Christian martyrs in Rome. Receiving in audience the organization against immodesty in women's dress, he said:

"Christianity transformed pagan women into Christian women to such a touching point that women dragged into the circus to be torn to pieces by wild animals were more concerned about covering their nudity than about saving their lives."

He urged the organization to continue its struggle against immodesty in dress "even if it doesn't give immediate results."

Osservatore Romano, organ of the Vatican, in reporting the Papal audience urged the government to join the religious authorities by passing a bill prohibiting the publication of pictures of immodesty in dress.

SAYS BRENNAN CONDITION IS BETTER TODAY

Democratic Leader's Good Spirit Is In His Favor Says Doctor

Chicago, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Dr. C. R. G. Forrester, one of the specialists in attendance upon George E. Brennan, Illinois Democratic chieftain, today said his patient's condition was "very favorable."

"Mr. Brennan's greatest asset is his spirit. He feels he will pull through and I am confident he will. He is resting comfortably this morning and his temperature and pulse are normal. The patient ate a good breakfast," said Dr. Forrester.

The Democratic leader has been in a hospital almost a week suffering from septic poisoning following the extraction of two infected teeth.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Duffy of Chicago were visitors with old friends of the former here for a few hours today, while enroute west in their auto for their vacation outing. Mr. Duffy, who is a son of the late Timothy Duffy, for many years connected with the North-Western railroad here, left the city about thirty years ago. He is now proprietor of a successful sand and gravel business in Chicago.

Mrs. Emil Anderson, of DeKalb, who has been a guest of Miss Alice Byers for several days, went to Amboy this morning with her hostess to spend the day with friends.

Terse Items of News Gathered in Dixon During Day

AFFIRM LEECH DECISION

The appellate court has affirmed the decision of County Judge William L. Leech of this city in an important case which was appealed from the county court of Ogle county last December in which the Polo state bank instituted proceedings against Harry Typer, conservator of George W. and Jennie Hey. The suit was based on property rights and was heard before Judge Leech who presided in the Ogle county court in the absence of Judge Leon Zick.

"BOB" PITCHED GOOD GAME

"Old Bob" Woodyatt looked pretty good in the box for the Reynolds Wire Weavers in their game against the Brown Shoe Company's Industrial League team at Sterling's field Wednesday evening, but "old man" couldn't play the whole game and his team was beaten 3 to 2 in a cracking good fight. Bob ran bases like a colt and was called out at the plate on a decision which some of the fans questioned. Gillian, pitched for the shoe makers, was knocked out when he was struck in the groin by a hard batted ball in the last inning, but he picked the ball up and whipped it to first for the final put out before he sank to the ground helpless.

This evening the Merchants and I. N. U. teams will clash at the Singer diamond, the game being called at 5:30 o'clock, and another interesting game is in prospect for fans.

DRUGGISTS PICNIC

Every drug store in Lee, Ogle and Whiteside counties was closed this afternoon, the occasion being the annual picnic of the members of the Tri-County Druggists Assn. and their families at Lowell Park. An afternoon of sports had been arranged, for which many valuable prizes had been offered by wholesale druggists, culminating in a ball game, to be followed by the big picnic dinner this evening.

LOST PART OF FINGER

B. A. Marriott of the Public Drug and Book company, suffered a very painful injury late Tuesday evening, which necessitated the amputation of a section of the first finger on his right hand. In closing the door of his automobile, his finger was caught and terribly crushed, the shattered bones protruding through the flesh. It was necessary to amputate the member at the first joint.

POLICE SEEK WOUNDED MAN

A trail of blood which was followed for more than four blocks in the business district, was being investigated by the police today in an effort to locate two strange men who appeared on First street about 8 o'clock this morning, apparently in search of a physician. Officer Dick Pomeroy received the first report, when he was informed that two men appeared to be quite anxious to locate a physician.

When he started up the stairs, his companion was reported to have grabbed him and together they went toward the bridge. The officer was able to trace the pair, by following the blood, slithering to River street and Peoria avenue, where they appeared to have proceeded west along the switch tracks.

FIRE IN RUBBISH

The fire department was summoned to a vacant lot in the rear of the Barriage service station last evening about 6 o'clock to extinguish a fire which had been started in a pile of rubbish. The blaze was extinguished without damage to adjoining property.

JED SHAW PRODUCER

The following item from the New York Times concerns Jed F. Shaw, who was born in Dixon and who was a nephew of the late B. F. Shaw: Jed F. Shaw, for many years general manager for Winthrop Ames, will enter the theatrical producing field during the coming season. The nature of Mr. Shaw's first production is unannounced. In addition to his new activity, Mr. Shaw will continue his association with the Ames office.

SPANISH PLANE

FORCED BACK TO

MAKE REPAIRS

Madrid, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Constructors of the seaplane Numancia said today that damage which occurred to the gasoline pump forced the plane down when it attempted to fly to the Azores yesterday on the first leg of a world flight. The airmen tried to repair the defect while in the air but finally came down off the Portuguese coast about 100 miles west of Cadiz, their starting point.

The damage was said not to be important and the plane may possibly start again tomorrow from Huelva, where the airmen now are.

SIGNALLING

FOR RESCUE

The Captain estimated that he was 210 miles from the plane.

The Celtic had reported hearing distress signals from the Courtney plane at 9:30 A. M. Greenwich mean time, which corresponds to 4:30 Eastern standard time.

If this message was sent at about noon, Captain Courtney had been down the time the airplane was forced down, Captain Courtney had been flying 14 hours and 35 minutes. He had expected to maintain a flying speed of 100 miles an hour which would have brought him at the hour

he was forced down to within 400 miles of his goal. The position given in the radio messages however indicated that he was at least 100 miles further from land. It was apparent that the winds had cut down his speed.

A message received by the Radio

Marine Corporation at 9:10, Eastern

Standard time from the liner Penn-land said that at that hour both the British steamer Minnewaska and the President Hayes were proceeding toward the Courtney plane.

It was pointed out in explanation of the fact that so many ocean steamships found themselves near the downed plane that Captain Courtney had come down very near the southern steamship route from New York

ROUGH SEAS— (Written for the Christian Science Monitor)

The horses are galloping over the sea.
High with the wind they run!
Their flying manes and their tossing heads
Are white as snow in the sun.

Hurrying, leaping, racing each other,
They roar in over the sands;
O horses, white horses! and are you come
From China's distant strands?

The horses are galloping over the sea.
Into the curving bay:
Rushing, and rearing their foamy heads
And drenching the rocks with spray.

Far overhead the sea gulls drift,
Like cloud on soaring cloud,
Over the wind-swept skies of blue,
In flight serene and proud.

But still there come, from over the world,
As far as the eye can see,
The wild white horses, galloping,
Galloping over the sea!

Short Interviews with Famous Women

"Fish are very much like human beings. People who have them for pets should realize this and give them some consideration." Miss Ida M. Mellen, America's only woman fish doctor, remarked.

"Fish suffer from much the same ailments that the human species do and they cannot exist if their conditions of life are uncomfortable."

"We learn a lot about people from fish. Take the matter of exercise. If fish get lazy and won't exercise, they get sick. To remedy this at the New York Aquarium we give them a change of scenery. You would be surprised how a more attractive swimming ground and an extra amount of sunlight arouses their enthusiasm."

"If fish eat too much or the wrong food, they get indigestion just like humans. And, like humans, they hate to take castor oil. I have had fish hold it in their mouths and spit it out later, rather than swallow it. We have to watch them just like children to see that they get their medicine."

"In the matter of complexions or skin troubles, we have found that the mud baths, prescribed by women's beauty doctors, for human complexions, are excellent."

"An excellent motto to make sure your pet fish has good care is, 'Try to imagine yourself in his place.' That makes you think."

SPEAKING OF WEDDINGS, TED COOK SAYS—

In his column today in the Herald-Examiner, Ted Cook says, "Why not call them Bride and Bride?"

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SULLIVER

I ask you, all my fair readers, do you object to being called "women"? Do you insist upon being ladies? A certain gentleman took his pen in hand not so long ago to write scurrilous words to the editor of "The Calcutta Statesman" which had mentioned a woman as just that, rather than "a lady."

Would you like your wife or sister to be called "a woman"? And it seems that not so long ago "a gentleman" of India used the same paper because it called him "a man," rather than the "gentleman" he was so sure he was.

It's too funny and petty to merit much comment; one can only thank goodness for being a woman in a country which permits one to be just that! As a matter of fact, we regard the word "lady" as vulgar, and most of our "gentlemen" prefer to be known as "men."

GAL PREFERRED PLUME

It seems that O. Henry, though he was then plain Will Porter, the sheep herder, fell in love with the dark-eyed niece of the wife of the general storekeeper 15 miles from the Texas ranch where Will was doing his herding. At first Will went for his mail only once a week, but after meeting the girl, Clarence Crozier, he went twice. She played the melodeon and he sang "I stood on the Bridge at Midnight." Then the aunt grew worried. Her niece must aspire to more than a mere sheep herder. She bribed Clarence to go home by offering her a white ostrich plume, then the last word in female elegance. Clarence went home, played the organ for some other gent and eventually married him.

Years later, learning that O. Henry was her sheep herder, she remembered that her aunt never gave her the plume as well as cheating her out of romance with a potential celebrity. Somehow I'm glad O. Henry escaped; he deserved a girl who wouldn't prefer an ostrich plume.

BATHING SUITS

Woman's whole story of evolution is told by the bathing suits of then and now. In 1860 and 1875 she would have drowned if she ever gotten beyond her depth in those rags. Today her suit is built for swimming. In 1860 and 1875 woman was a possession. "Modesty" was demanded of her so that no other man might covet another man's possession. Today woman belongs to herself and has won the right to swim and have it called swimming, not merely "an indecent exposure of herself" as it was called in the man-possessed era.

Gehant-Absher Wedding Wednesday

Another beautiful summer wedding took place Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Ashton, when in the presence of about twenty-five relatives and intimate friends, Miss Mary Alice Gehant and R. John Absher, were married, at the home of the bride's parents.

Rev. Albion Tavenner, pastor of the Ashton Methodist church, officiated, using the impressive ring ceremony. The wedding took place in the living room, which was attractively decorated, green being the predominant color note, with an abundance of ferns and baskets of gladioli, in beautiful shades, being the background of the bower in which the vows were exchanged. Cathedral candles shed a mellow glow over the scene.

Prior to the entrance of the wedding party Miss Loala Quick at the piano played Dr. J. B. "Souvenir" and "Simple Aveu," by Thome. Miss Genevieve Randall, of Dixon, sang sweetly, "At Dawning," by Cadman, and "I Love You Truly" by Carrie Jacobs Bond, accompanied by Miss Quick.

The bride's party entered as the strains of the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin were played. The bride's attendant was Mrs. A. J. Tavenner, nee Mildred Gale, an intimate friend, who wore a gown of flowered chiffon and carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses. Miss Margaret Hanawalt, as ring-bearer, and Miss Irene Canfield, of Fairmont, Minnesota, cousin of the bride, as flower girl, wore dresses of pastel shades.

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father, was charmingly attired in a sleeveless gown of white georgette, and wore a tulle veil which hung in soft folds from a beautiful lace cap caught at either side with orange blossoms. Her bridal bouquet was a graceful arm arrangement of white roses and lilies of the valley. The bride was met at the altar by the groom and best man, Mr. William F. Klinge, of Dixon. The groom wore a suit of conventional blue. During the ceremony and reception, Mrs. Ruby Shippee, violinist, accompanied by Miss Quick, played a lovely program of nuptial music.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception was held and the guests were given an opportunity to extend congratulations to the bride and groom. Misses Katherine and Lois Hanawalt acted as waitresses in the serving of refreshments.

The bride is a graduate of the Ashton High School, and of the Teacher's College at DeKalb, and continued her education at Cornell College at Mount Vernon, Iowa, graduating with the Class of 1925. She is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity, one of the most widely known and esteemed honorary college fraternities. Following her graduation she taught in the Mt. Vernon Iowa High School and in Cornell college.

For the past nine months she has been the capable Editor of The Gazette, and her vacancy at the office is deeply regretted. She has always been very active in church work, and at the time of her marriage was President of the Epworth League and Secretary of the Methodist Sunday School. Her talents were always used cheerfully in behalf of her church, and the new community to which she will go to make her home will be truly fortunate in having her come among them.

Mr. Absher is a man of sterling qualities, who is worthy of the bride he has chosen. He is well known in Ashton, having taught in the Public School here for several years. For the past six years he has been superintendent at Creston, where he has been very successful. He is highly esteemed by all who know him.

Mr. and Mrs. Absher left on a several week's motor trip to Northern Wisconsin. Upon their return they will be at home to their friends after September fifteenth at Creston. The bride's going-away costume was a white ensemble with rose hat.

Their many friends are extending best wishes for a life of happiness, and the Gazette joins heartily with them.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Canfield and daughter, Irene, of Fairmont, Minnesota; Miss Elsie Pumphrey, of Chicago; Miss Genevieve Randall of Dixon and Mr. and Mrs. August Bettner and sons William and Arthur of Compton—Ashton Gazette.

THE FINESSE

Further instances when finesse should be tried, follow:

(1) Dummy holds A 8 6 5; Declarer Q J 2. Three tricks may be made. From the dummy the 5 is played and declarer finessses Queen. Then he returns to dummy in another suit and leads the 6, finessing Jack.

(2) Dummy holds, K J 4; Declarer, 10 9 8. Two tricks may be made. Declarer leads 10 and if it is covered with Queen by west, plays King from dummy.

(3) Dummy holds, K 4 3 2; Declarer, J 10 9 8. Two or three tricks may be made by following the same procedure as for the illustration above, leading Jack.

(4) Dummy holds, A 10 3; Declarer, J 9 2. Two tricks may be made. Declarer leads Jack and if not covered with Queen by west, plays 3 from dummy. If west covers with Queen, Ace in the dummy takes. The next play depends upon whether declarer wants lead in the dummy or his own hand.

(5) Dummy holds, A K 2; Declarer, J 10 4. Three tricks may be made. Declarer leads Jack and if not covered with Queen by west, plays 8 from dummy. If this finesse works, declarer leads 2 and finessses Jack. If the second finesse works, the Ace takes the next trick and a favorable distribution may make the remaining 9 in the dummy good.

(7) Dummy holds, A Q 6; Declarer, J 10 5. Three tricks may be made. Declarer leads Jack, and if not covered with King by west, plays 6 from dummy. Then declarer leads 10 and if not covered with King by west, finessses Queen in dummy.

(8) Dummy holds, A J 7 5; Declarer, K 10 4 3. Four tricks may be made. Finesse can be taken either way. If the bidding has furnished information as to the probable location of the Queen the play becomes simpler.

To Combat Activities Of Pacifist Group

Chicago, Aug. 2. —(AP)—Militant Daughters of the American Revolution have been called upon by Adelaide H. Sisson, the Illinois chairman of the National Defense committee, to "combat the activities of that pacifist group, the Militarism in Education committee, which is particularly active in Illinois."

"Our job," Mrs. Sisson has written all Illinois chapters, is to see that nothing is allowed to interfere with democratic training of our youth for self-protection and the country's defense. We have done effective work along this line, but there is much to be done."

In line with this endeavor Mrs. Sisson announced that August 16 will be marked as "D. A. R. day" at Fort Sheridan where the Citizens Military Training camp of the Sixth Corps area is in training.

"All members," her announcement said, "are invited to view the camp in its many phases of activity—military drill, athletics, mess-hall in action and camp life in general. Our interest is appreciated by the patriotic citizens who sponsor these camps."

Friloha Class in Happy Meeting

The Friloha class of the First Christian church went to Lowell park Monday evening for the regular class meeting. The evening began with an invigorating swim, after which a picnic supper and wicker roast was enjoyed. A few investigating mosquitoes were also present.

After the short business session and during the discussion period the girls wrote a "friendship letter," to two absent members, Anne Osicka at Chicago and Naomi Padgett at Detroit, Michigan. The evening was immensely enjoyed by everyone attending. It is hoped to soon repeat the delightful occasion.

RESTORING OLD COLOR.

The word "color" is a word that is used very often and understood very little. It is applied to prize fighters, ball players, aviators, and politicians, to historical periods, unusual professions and bygone customs. We say that such and such a man, or such and such a time, was "colorful," even though we are not always certain exactly what we mean by it.

The recent race between two Ohio river packet boats is a case in point.

These two steamers held a 25-mile race out of Cincinnati. The race was an unusual feature for the year 1928; but 50 years ago it was one of the regular features of river life. Rival steamship companies used to pit their best boats against one another on special runs, in which windows would be knocked out so that air could stream freely through the cabins, and safety-valves would be tied down for the sake of extra steam pressure—often with disastrous results. And we say that such races, such times, were "colorful," and we lament that they are no more.

We often hear that our inland rivers do not carry nearly as much traffic as they did in the old days. We are mistaken. The barge lines, federal and private, do a huge amount of business. Tugboats hauling big barges loaded to the gunwales with freight are constantly on the move, all the way from Pittsburgh to New Orleans. But the famous old packet boats are scarce. The levee at St. Louis used to be lined with them for blocks; now you can hardly find a half dozen there. It is the color that has gone; we carry our freight now more prosaically than we used to.

This is a net loss, in one way. It has its advantages, of course; the goods that we ship get to their destination quicker than they used to, and with less waste and expense. But a string of black barges does not give the thrill that a hurrying white packet boat gave. Life is less exciting than it used to be.

There isn't any particular use crying over spilt milk. We can't bring the old days back. They are gone forever. Efficiency is our watchword nowadays; and you can't have efficiency and romance together.

The loss of color is one of the penalties we pay for progress. We miss the old canals with their shaded tow paths, the moss-grown old grist mills, the puffing river steamers, the snake rail fences around the old farms, the sailing ships, the stage coaches. Life has grown smoother and less colorful. We have to make the best of it. Now and then, when something like this Ohio river race reminds us of the old days, we can sigh for the vanished past. But that is all we can do.

Culture is sadly on the wane in America, according to a French critic. Maybe he had in mind the fact that a prize fight doesn't seem to draw quite $1,000,000 any more.

General Nobile was hissed in Norway. That reminds us that a young man named Columbus was hooted once in one of those towns over there.

Sometimes a man takes a girl in his arms to find that he has her on his hands.

"Coolidge Out After Bass," says a newspaper headline. We often have felt like chasing some of those singers ourselves.

When the politicians take up farm relief, some measures ought to be adopted in behalf of the young men who have to rise at 4 a. m. to feed the ducks after being out with the chickens until 3:45.

A New England cooking expert praises the swordfish as a delicious food. The news probably will be hailed with delight by veteran sword-swallowers.

A dispatch from New York tells of a retired banker who told the judge he'd gladly pay his $25 fine for speeding because the policeman who arrested him had been so polite. But maybe the policeman didn't know he had retired.

The champion female rolling pin thrower is reported as one of the many curiosities Washington, D. C., possesses. Now can some city please produce the champion staying-with-a-sick-friend husband?

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY MAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNUCK

The Tynmites all ran real fast. "I wonder how long this will last," yelled Carpy, as they trailed behind the funny wooden man. "I'm tired enough to almost weep. This hill were on is mighty steep. But, come on, let's keep running. We will catch him if we can."

And so the bunch ran right along, all hoping that they would be strong enough to stay right with the wooden man until he stopped. There came a small turn in the hill, and Clowney took a sudden spill. The other Tynmites looked back and laughed loudly as he toppled.

"Don't wait for me," pood Clowney cried. "I'll soon be right up by your side." And then he scrambled to his feet and tried to pick up speed. He found this was a worthy bunch, 'cause he was shortly with the bunch. But then he felt real tired, and wailed, "A rest is what I need."

"Oh, goodness, gracious, do not stop," yelled Scouty. "Two would be bad to drop our chase behind the wooden man, 'cause then he'd get away. If we keep going, I've no doubt the wooden man will soon tire out, and then we'll let him rest a bit, and then turn out for play."

But funny Mister Wooden Man would not tire out. He ran and ran. The Tynmites didn't stop to think that he was made of wood, and therefore he would not grow fagged. The weary Tynmites lagged. "Oh, my," wailed Scouty, "I must quit. This running's not so good."

But just then Coppy cried, "I've found the way to bring him to the ground. I'm sure that this will stop him." And he took a sudden leap. It was a tackle, very neat. And Coppy caught him by the feet. The wooden man and Coppy spilled and both fell in a heap.

(The Tynmites have fun with the Wooden Man in the next story.)

EXCESSIVE BOWEL ELIMINATION

The most frequent cause of acute diarrhea, or looseness of the bowels, is an intestinal poisoning from improper food, which is so offensive or irritating that the intestines endeavor to empty themselves as rapidly as possible. These frequent bowel movements are simply nature's method of trying to rid the body of some particularly offensive substance, and the treatment should assist the body in this respect.

Diarrhea is usually accompanied by painful cramps and severe straining. The bowel movements are loose, liquid, and sometimes tinged with blood. Some cases have bile present. There is some fever present which is sometimes so light as to escape notice. The patient is constantly under the apprehension that there is something in the bowel which should be discharged.

The discharge of so much liquid produces a feeling of weakness and enervation. This is because the body uses the serum of the blood to supply the liquid to the bowels. If the body loses too much vitality in this process the disease may terminate fatally.

Diarrhea is always caused by, or associated with, an inflammation of some portion of the intestines. The treatment should not simply mean stopping the discharge which might lead to serious after effects. The patient should be encouraged to drink as much water as possible to wash out the poisonous material. A small amount of fruit juice may be added. Hot abdominal packs will sometimes give relief, and warm enemas should be used which may be followed by an injection of a small amount of cold water.

Diarrhea may almost always be stopped within a few moments by the proper pressure upon the spinal nerves affecting the intestines. But I do not advise this except as an emergency in cases of extreme weakness.

Dysentery is a severe form of diarrhea in which certain types of amoebae are present. The treatment is similar to the treatment of simple diarrhea, except that a longer time may be required for a cure. Some drugs such as arsenic and mercury will produce severe diarrhea in susceptible people. A sudden fall in temperature will sometimes produce diarrhea in adults, who have a toxic blood stream. This is because the perspiration caused by the warm weather is stopped by the cold wave, and the lack of elimination of toxins throws an additional work on the intestines.

Children are more susceptible to diarrhea in warm weather, possibly because they do not require as much food as they do in cold weather, and because they are more apt to use food that has become spoiled by the heat.

Sometimes serious diseases are accompanied by diarrhea during their progress. Some of them are cholera, pyemia, blood poisoning, anemia, cancer, typhoid fever, Addison's disease, sclerosis of the liver and tuberculosis. Of course, when these diseases are present, diarrhea is only a symptom and cannot be treated as the principal disease. The only sensible course in ordinary types of disease is to stop all food for a week or two and allow the liver and intestines to completely empty themselves of toxic material. Two or three enemas should be used each day during this fasting treatment, and the skin elimination should be increased by sponge and shower baths.

Although I have had the opportunity to handle some of the more serious types of diarrhea and dysentery, I have never yet seen a case that could not be stopped by this method of treatment.

In this disorder as with many others we should work with and not against, nature.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: R. H. writes: "My wife, fifty-six years of age, has been under the care of a heart specialist for nearly two years. She has high blood pressure, pains in the back of the neck, continuous ringing in the ears, with severe headache at intervals; a gnawing feeling in the small of the back, eyes ache and seem too large for the sockets. Has a general feeling of weakness and insecurity, and is very nervous. Has had eyes tested, but glasses do not seem to help. Had a bad illness last winter, and the doctor said it was Bright's Disease. She eats very little. Please advise what to do in this case."

ANSWER: It is unwise for me to attempt to advise you through the column in such a serious case, but I will be glad to send you some articles that I have written on high blood pressure and Bright's Disease. I regret that you have had to wait so long to see this unsatisfactory answer, but you did not give me your name and address or I would have written you at once.

QUESTION: G. U. asks: "Please tell me how many calories a day should one get in his food. I am underweight, and am trying to improve by eating. Is it injurious to take salts every night? What causes fever blisters when one does not seem to have fever, or cause for it?"

ANSWER: Dietitians who try to balance patients' diets through the calorie theory might say that you require something between 2,500 and 3,500 calories a day, but the truth is you may be able to get more nourishment and live better on 1,000 calories daily, providing it is of the right quality. It is a bad habit to take salts every night. The so-called fever blisters are really caused by hyper-acidity of the stomach which is usually present when one has a fever; but, of course, these blisters may occur at any time from the hyper-acidity when fevers are not present.

War-Torn Veteran Grieving for Dog

HOUSTON, Texas (AP)—William Reid's worry and grief over the loss of Buddy, his faithful dog companion overseas 10 years ago, is causing physicians to doubt that the 36-year-old world war veteran will recover the use of his gas-ravaged lungs and his shell-torn body.

Chafing under the orders that keep him in the hospital, Reid worries because he cannot hunt for Buddy, and this worrying, doctors say, aggravates his injuries.

A free lance poet who went from hospital to hospital to keep a little ahead of death, Reid came to Houston unannounced with his dog. One morning the veteran, whose home is in Gulfport, Miss., was found huddled on a fire escape at the Jefferson Davis hospital. In his hand was a dog's collar, bearing the name Buddy.

Reid had suffered a sun stroke. When he recovered he asked attendants whether they had seen his dog.

"Buddy was the smartest of 142 that were given to us in France," he explained. That was all he would say about the pet other than to ask them to look for a wire-haired terrier.

Notes about the dog, however, were found among his belongings. These told, among other things, how the man and Buddy together had walked 6,000 miles from January 6 to April 3.

"I took a liking to Buddy," one of the notes says after relating how the pet had been "transferred" from the English army to his company. "He was under my command until the end of the war. Buddy was allowed to return to the States with me by special permission of the colonel of our regiment."

We, the staff of the "Daily Fibune" have tried to make this, our edition of the camp paper, a success. It has been the custom in the past to have a daily to be read at the camp fire. As this is our first attempt, and in view of the fact that we are very busy getting acquainted, this edition is rather brief. We are having lots of fun out here in the respect that it is larger since there are representatives from Dixon, Prophetstown, Morrison and Downers Grove. Everybody happy.

Sports Section

At 4 o'clock sharp the whistle blew for swimming and everyone rushed, helter and skelter, for their tents to disrobe. After a half-mile hike the girls reached the river. We can't seem to be able to get away from the Rock River, wherever we camp.

A volley ball net is up, but as yet it hasn't been used.

Camp Craft

The whistle blew at 3 o'clock for the girls to meet in the Camp Craft tent. After everyone had assembled Miss Edwards explained a few things about the hours of Camp Craft. She introduced Miss Beach, who is going to give us Nature Study; Miss Agnew, who promises us great fun in dramatic art; and Miss Campbell, who is going to make graceful nymphs out of our own little Girl Scouts.

After all the various instructors were introduced, Miss Edwards explained to us when and how we could work for our badges, and also showed us some very interesting things that we are going to work on in our Handicraft work. Everyone is anticipating the most interesting hour in Camp Craft.

News Events

Yesterday the Downers Grove girls landed in camp, bag and baggage. After finding their tents, their homes for the next ten days, they partook of a hearty meal and retired early. As soon as we arrived at camp this morning we went to the Councilor's tent to register and then were assigned tents. The most of our morning was spent in getting settled, after which we partook of a most delicious dinner. Starting at noon we followed the schedule, which included rest hour, craft, swimming and free hour. Altogether we have thoroughly enjoyed our first day in camp.

Through The Years—In 1924 the Dixon Girl Scouts had their first camp at The Pines. Things were very different then—that is the attitude in camp. We were very new in Scouting but took to our new surroundings readily. The Sterling Scouts were with us and we enjoyed ourselves immensely. The tents were in a clearing with the pines all around. Our dwellings were arranged in a horseshoe formation. There were about 60 in camp. We were under the able direction of Miss Ruth Utley. Rain prevented all but two nights in camp.

In 1925 the DeKalb and Dixon Scouts camped together at Bovey Springs, seven miles north of Dixon. Miss Vivian Sell of Sheboygan, Wis., was our leader. We were in camp only a week, with fifty enrolled.

Again in 1926 we moved our camp, this time to Hintz Lake. Miss Sell was again our director. The tents were on the north side of the lake and the mess hall on the south. There were 54 in camp.

Bovey Springs was again the site of our fourth camp. Miss Dorothy Palmer was our leader. This time the camp was down nearer the creek, with a cottage across serving as headquarters.

But the 1928 camp is the ring leader. Five of the most important towns in this vicinity are represented: Prophetstown, Fulton, Morrison, Downers Grove and Dixon. Miss Palmer is again in leadership. There are 85 girls in camp and it promises to be a howling success.

EDITORIAL

By Virginia Lasher & Ruth Bradley
This morning we thought that our second day at camp would be a dreary rainy one compared with last year.

We came to camp last year on July 30th and had a very enjoyable week with hardly any rainy weather. We were at this camp and the Prophetstown Campfire Girls under the leadership of Mrs. Nelson added to our own troop of Morrison Girl Scouts led by Miss Steiner made about 90 girls in camp. We had nearly the same duties as we have now. After sunrise was sounded at 6:30 we put on our bathing suits and had sitting up exercises. Then we took a morning dip in Rock River, after which came breakfast. The rest of our duties were about the same as those we have now. In the afternoon we practiced signalling and worked on our Tenderfoot test.

FINEST BABY? HERE'S HOW

English doctors have declared that Betty Froggatt, who lives near Survar, England, is the most healthy baby in the world. If that's true, this picture explains how she got that way—for Betty's mother who believes in the efficacy of fresh air and sunshine, is rearing the child without clothes. Now, that's all right in this kind of weather, but how will Betty feel when, and if, winter comes?

Although some things are quite different than they were last year for our visitors as well as ourselves, we hope that we will enjoy these ten days more than any year before.

DONATIONS

Sink by Troop I, Girl Scouts of Morrison.

Ice Box by Morrison Girl Scout Council.

CLASSES

In the forenoon there are several classes: Nature under Miss Bech, Dramatics under Miss Agnew, Dancing under Miss Campbell and Badge Work under Miss Edwards.

In the afternoon there is handicraft under several officers, some of the articles which are to be made being camp memory books, lacquered vases, leather belts and braided leather lanyards.

First Aid is given during free time by Miss McGinnis the camp nurse. Dramatics is also given in the afternoon. Those taking dramatics the first four days may take handicraft the last four days, while those taking Nature the first four days may take dramatics the last four days.

JOKE

There seems to be quite a mystery here in camp about the He-Girls from Prophetstown.

This morning when we awoke, we heard a terrible noise, it was Girl Scout No. 64 scratching her head.

In the middle of the night a noise awoke me, it was Skinny snoring. Unconscious is suing Mr. Rampness for $100.00 for breaking her uke here last night.

Sally to goose. "Are you the goose that laid the golden egg?" "No Sally, you wrong me my name is Henry."

In our tent today there were several men who were quite popular with us girls. Grand-daddy Longlegs and brothers who were having their pictures drawn.

A Girl Scout in tent 20b contrived a way to stick non-stickable stamps on letters. After pondering over the problem, she removed her chewing gum and stuck on her stamp.

Today we bet Edith Horwitz that she couldn't stop giggling and do you believe it she stopped for a half second in order to reply no.

SPORTS

Our swimming director designed a new method of keeping track of the girls while in swimming. A life line was put up and checking consists of having two boards, one above the other on which they hang their tag numbers. The upper one held the tags while the girls were swimming and when they returned the tags were placed on the lower one. This method has relieved the swimming director and counselors of a great deal of anxiety for the girls welfare. We will have directed games every evening at 7 o'clock by Miss Edwards and Miss Campbell.

GEO. N. PEEK WILL TALK WITH SMITH ON FARM RELIEF

Moline Farm Leader Will Breakfast Tomorrow With Gov. Smith

Hampton Bays, N. Y., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Governor Smith has invited George N. Peek, a farm leader from the corn belt, to have breakfast tomorrow with him in New York and to discuss the agricultural situation.

The Democratic presidential nominee announced his engagement with Peek just before he departed by motor for New York from Canoe Place Inn, his vacation headquarters since Saturday.

Peek who is a Republican and was a supporter of Frank O. Lowden during his pre-convention campaign, has been in New York conferring with the Democratic executive campaign committee. He has expressed his dissatisfaction over the farm plank in the Republican platform and over Herbert Hoover's candidacy.

Peek lives in Moline, Ill., and is chairman of the committee of 22 which has been active for several years in an unsuccessful effort to obtain federal legislation along the lines of the vetoed McNary-Haugen bill.

His conference with Governor Smith as the Democratic nominee is shaping up in his mind his acceptance which will be delivered at Albany three weeks from tonight and in which the Governor intends to discuss campaign issues, including farm relief.

Several weeks ago in a telegram to W. H. Settle, president of the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation, Smith promised, if elected, to seek the advice of experts during the winter so that he might have all after his inauguration a comprehensive plan of farm relief.

With an appreciative wave of the hand to the weather man who had done all he could to make the vacation of a presidential nominee enjoyable, Governor Smith said farewell today to an old summer stamping ground and turned back to New York Albany, and his campaign.

Refreshed by a little more than three days at the shore, during which he had any political worries, he concealed them, the Governor called for automobiles to be ready about noon. It was with reluctance that he pulled himself away from restful surroundings.

The destination of the Governor was the suite on fourteenth floor of the Biltmore Hotel, which is his home in the metropolis.

Kansas Sheriff Uses Plane

The old days of "shooting it out" on horseback are passe. The sheriff chases you with a plane nowadays. At any rate, Sheriff Elmer R. Channess of Winfield, Kan., does. STUDY TRAFFIC EFFICIENCY
Washington.—(AP)—The transportation division, Department of Commerce, is about to begin a study of the relation of traffic departments to efficient conduct of modern business. Facts and figures will be collected on the movement of merchandise by railway, airway, waterway and highway in an effort to determine the place of industrial traffic management as a factor for the elimination of waste in distribution.

Here's Convention Without Any Talk
Peoria, Ill., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Speeches will be few but accomplishments numerous and effective at the 14th triennial convention of the Illinois State Association of the Deaf, to meet here three days, opening August 8.

There will be no cries of "Hear, hear" and speakers will not be interrupted with the silencing rap of a gavel. Altogether according to Miss Grace Lord, Association secretary, the convention will be, as usual, one of the most delectable that meets periodically in Illinois.

Three hundred or more members of the association will devote themselves to the purpose of protecting themselves and others similarly handicapped, from unwarranted legislation, and to focussing attention on the progress of the State School for the Deaf at Jacksonville.

President August Rodenberger of East St. Louis will direct the association's deliberations. "One of our chief concerns," he said, "will be discussion of means to circumvent restrictive auto legislation by uniformed legislators. Our members own and operate over a hundred cars and have not yet been in an accident in which we were found at fault. Official tests in various localities have demonstrated that eyes are more important than ears in crowded traffic—and from early infancy we deaf come to depend on alert eyesight."

Mrs. Gus Hyman superintendent of the association's Home for Aged Deaf, in Chicago, will attend the meeting. She is the normal daughter of deaf parents. Few deaf beget deaf children. Treasurer Robey Burns, a football coach of the Jacksonville school, was quoted as expressing the thought thus—"Why should we—would you expect a one-armed man to breed a race of one-armed infants?"

"Whatever you do," Mrs. Grace Lord, the secretary warned, "don't call us 'dummies.' Back in the days of 'Dummy' Hoy, the Ty Cobb of thirty years ago, or of 'Dummy' Taylor, the third of the Giant's immortal 1904 trio, the term 'Dummy' was perhaps not so objectionable."

But with Hollywood's adaptation of the term, "Beautiful but Dumb" it has gradually come into decided disrepute. For while some of us can't talk—well—would you call ME "dumb?"

Movie Stars Help Battle Fire That Threatens Homes

Hollywood, Aug. 1.—(AP)—A fire which started in an unoccupied house in Laurel Canyon near here shortly before midnight and extended to the dry brush of the canyon slopes threatening many fine homes, was brought under control early today by amateur bucket brigades and firemen.

Many film celebrities who owned homes or summer cottages in the picturesque canyon joined their neighbors with buckets and garden hose, drenching the roofs of houses and beating out the brush fire.

DEMANDS OF MEN

A New York real estate broker shot himself because, as his farewell letter explained, he had been a coward all his life, hated his cowardice, and had to do something to deliver himself from the stigma of "coward."

Sometimes one gets a glimpse of the things that haunt men's souls, a realization that they, too, have certain male attributes imposed upon them by tradition and custom from which they dare not deviate. Women suffer if they are not beautiful, charming, and full of lure for men, for the tradition says they must be all that. The tradition, too, says that men must be strong, courageous, bold. Perhaps the individual man sometimes feels his inadequacies as much as the individual woman.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS BEST OF YOUNGER BASE BALL TEAMS MEET IN CHICAGO

Four Divisional Camp Teams Clashing at
Cubs Park Today

Chicago, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The best brand of kids' baseball ever witnessed in Illinois will be seen here today when four downstate Junior baseball league clubs clash with four first division winners of Chicago and Cook county at Cubs Park.

These eight teams represent the best in the state out of 1,052 clubs organized by various American Legion posts and sponsored by the Americanization committee of the American Legion and organized baseball.

Starting Thursday, divisional elimination will determine semi-finalists who will compete for the state crown Saturday. The following week a regional series will be held with state champion clubs from Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Illinois competing. From there the winner will go into sectional play semi-finals, and to finals for the Junior World League pennant.

The schedule as arranged by the American Legion state athletic officer in charge, W. C. Bechtold of Evansville, follows:

Thursday's games:

American Boy Commonwealth (Chicago) vs Centralia, 9:30 a. m.

West End Cardinals (Chicago) vs Peoria, 11:30 a. m.

Marine Post (Chicago) vs Elmhurst, 2 p. m.

Forest Park (Cook county) vs Springfield, 4 p. m.

Divisional finals were completed last week end, Centralia winning the 5th division finals over Fairfield, Zeigler and Alton; Springfield winning the 4th division bunting over Decatur, Odell and Champaign; Peoria capturing the 3rd division pennant by defeating Kewanee, Rock Island and Jacksonville; and Elmhurst winning the second division flag over Ottawa and Waukegan.

Friday afternoon, winners of the first and second contests Thursday will compete in state semi-finals. Later, winners of the third and fourth games will play. Saturday afternoon at Cubs Park semi-finalists will clash for the state crown.

Realizing that the average boy or girl baseball fan hasn't the price of admission, the Chicago council will admit free to any of the contests any boy or girl under sixteen years old.

State champions emerging from Saturday's playing will meet the following week on August 8 and 9, at Cubs Park in a regional tourney of champions of Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Illinois.

One of the features of the regional series will be the playing of the Bradford, Indiana, club champions of the Hoosier state, which has the only girl player enrolled of any club in the Junior League.

She is Margaret Gistolo, 15, Keystone sacker whose timely hitting and spectacular playing off second base has been largely instrumental in winning the state title.

Watching the Big Scoreboard

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Rain forced the maintenance of the status quo in the National League yesterday when all three scheduled games were postponed, and simultaneous victories by the Yankees and the Athletics accomplished the same result in the younger Major Circuit. The chase remains tight for Connie Mack and his veteran array, even though he has won nine straight, sixteen out of seventeen and twenty-six out of thirty two. Only super-teams can move at that gait, and the Yankees still dangle five and one-half games beyond the mackian grasp.

By all of the laws of averages, the Athletics should soon falter—against some weak team when least expected.

The thundering Mackmen showed some signs of lagging yesterday, but pulled through to a 6 to 4 victory over the Indians in Cleveland. Howard Ehmke gained a six-run lead in the second when the Mackmen assaulted Willis Hudlin with vigor, but the reformer Bostonian himself gave up one in the home second and three more in the seventh.

Miller Huggins saw something more than a game won as the Yankees overcame the Browns by 12 to 1 in the series opener at St. Louis. Young Henry Johnson, whose chief fault even in victory, has been apparently incurable wildness, let Dan Howley's boys down with seven scattered hits and gave only one base on balls.

Perhaps only Johnson himself is interested in the fact that his batting average was lifted 82 points to .260 in one afternoon through the handy medium of five assorted singles in five times at bat.

Johnson's fine performance marked the first gallant effort by the Yankee second pitching string in many weeks—the Shaley-Johnson-Campbell combination which looked so wood while winning.

That other slugger, George Herman Ruth, added his forty-second home run to the woes of Alvin Crowder in the first inning at St. Louis. This put the Babe twenty-three games, twenty-seven days and eight home runs ahead of himself, as measured by his record gait of 1927.

The White Sox ran their string to five straight by downing the Red Sox in Chicago, 4 to 2 and 7 to 3. Ed Walsh, Jr., officiated in the second clash, and won his first home victory. The Tigers routed the Senators, 10 to 5, in Detroit.

Results of Bovine T. B. Tests in State

Springfield, Ill., —(AP)—Reporting results of bovine tuberculosis tests during June, officials of the state department of agriculture today said that eradication of the disease in Illinois within two years was continuation of the present eradication program.

The report issued today showed that more than 100,000 head of cattle were tested during June, more than had been set as the goal for test during all the summer months of 1928. This established a new record for the number tested in any one month.

A total of 107,866 cattle were tested during June. Of these only 1,322 were tubercular. This is approximately 1.2 per cent, the lowest percentage recorded for any one month thus far. The number of cattle now under state supervision, including the June tests, has increased to 1,223,850 of all the breeding and dairy cattle in the state.

When the bovine tuberculosis eradication program was started by the state, only one county, Edgarm had been accredited free from the disease, and its status had lapsed. At present there are seventeen accredited counties, and others are expected to be accredited soon.

Practical elimination of the disease within the next two years, it was predicted, "is contingent only upon cooperation on the part of cattle owners and continuation of the present methods of procedure, which according to records, brings about more rapid progress than has ever been accomplished in the past."

"OLD GOLD has the most on the ball" says Lou Gehrig in Blindfold cigarette test

LOU GEHRIG... Stellar first baseman of the New York Yankees... runner-up last year to his team-mate, Babe Ruth, as champion cloutier of four-bag hit

If Babe Ruth is the "King of Swat"... Lou of the big smile is Crown Prince of Swatdom.

What cigarette's got the most on the ball? ... well, you can tell that with your eyes closed. For when OLD GOLD stepped into the box in the third inning of the Blindfold Test, I said without a moment's hesitation that it was smoother ... milder, than any of the other three brands.

Lou Gehrig

Lou was asked to smoke each of the four cigarettes, clearing his taste with coffee between smokes. Only one question was asked: "Which one do you like best?"

Made from the heart-leaves of the tobacco plant

Why you can pick them...

Three types of leaves grow on the tobacco plant, coarse top-leaves, irritating to the throat, withered ground-leaves, without taste or aroma... and the heart-leaves rich in cool and fragrant smoking qualities. Only the heart-leaves are used in Old Golds.

CROSSING THE LINE

Since ships have sailed the seas the ceremony of initiation into the Mysterious Order of Shellbacks has been practiced upon the occasion of the vessel "crossing the line"—the Equator. No matter how long one has followed the sea, until he has been across the Line and has been initiated into this ancient and mysterious Order of Shellbacks he is not a real, dyed-in-the-wool sailor.

With this made clear, then, picture, on the morning of January 21st 1921, the United States battleship Arkansas crossing the Line enroute from Balboa, Panama Canal Zone to Valparaiso, Chile, in company with the United States Battle Fleet.

For weeks previous to this event, mysterious things had been happening aboard. The older men of the crew, those whose backs bore the scars of their initiation into this Order, had been observed nosing quietly around the ship and making notes in their little black books when Hiram Jones, Seaman second class, supposed to be up on deck working or in his compartment studying, was seen "caulking off" on top of the blowers, or when Percival Van Something-or-other was seen scripping on soap in the wash room.

In reply to the eager questions of the youngsters they were told only to "stick around and see."

A good part of the port side of the quarterdeck, abeam of Number Four Turret, was screened off, and woe betide the unlucky "boot" whose over-developed bump of curiosity led him to try to sneak a look behind the scenes. A number ten shoe collided with the part of his anatomy upon which the sun never shine and another black mark was placed against his name in the book. Behind this screen the Carpenter and his gang were pounding and sawing away all day, getting ready for the big day.

The Deck Force, instead of sweeping the cinders from the stacks over the side, were made to put them in barrels—the Hossaps, the embryo Medicos of the ship, were feverishly mixing up great quantities of a mixture no one has as yet succeeded in naming and "Sails" was busy with his needle, working to get his share of the necessary gear ready, for when King Neptune takes command excuses are on accepted and dire is the punishment for delay.

At eight bells in the morning watch a loud cry was heard off the starboard bow: "Ship Ahoy—what ship it that?" The Quartermaster on watch replied, "The U. S. battleship Arkansas." Came again the hail: "Where from and where bound?" Replied the Q. M.: "From Panama to Valparaiso, with a crew of recruits and landlubbers aboard."

Following orders from the sea, the ship was stopped and up through the hawsepipe, dripping with salt King Neptune and his fearsome and festooned with seaweed, came retinue. The whole crew of the ship, with the exception of two salts detailed to watch the Royal Seahells, which pulled the Royal Conch Shell, were mustered on the quarterdeck. King Neptune took command and the initiation rites commenced.

The King took his station on his throne on top of Number Four Turret, at his side his beautiful wife Aphrodite, with his Royal Staff—Davy Jones, the Royal Scribe; the Royal Navigator, the Royal Doctor, the Royal Dentist and all the others.

Recruits were gathered in from far and near—hoisted out of the smokestacks—dragged up from the double bottoms on dunkers and down from the masts, shivering and begging and wondering just how many of the marks in the little black books were alongside of their names. Too late they wished that they had not made it necessary for the Box'n's Mate to drag 'em out of their bunks at reveille—too late they wished that they had buried their nose in the Blue Jacket's Manual instead of the latest edition of "Detective Thrillers."

Their doom was sealed and they could only take it.

Up before the King came Charlie White, sleekish seaman twice from the Third Deck Division. Davy Jones, the Royal Scribe, read from the little black book: "Doping off on watch—grabbing seconds at the mess table before his turn—doesn't put the proper high luster on his shoes at inspection," etc. The King waved his hand and the shaking victim is placed in the Royal Torture Chair, on the port edge of the turret.

His pompous pride and joy of his young life, was ruthlessly clipped—his face generously smeared with—now we know what the Hossaps were mixing! and the Royal Doctor placed in his mouth a pill, made of equal parts of salt-water, soap, cinders and taster oil.

These gentle treatments completed, the victim, along with the others who had taken their places alongside of him, was catapulted backward into the large canvas tank on deck

Leland Stanford Wel comes The Hoovers

Two of Leland Stanford University's most famous graduates—Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover—returned to their home at Palo Alto, Calif., the other day and got rousing welcome from students and townspeople. below the turret, and put through the process of purification. Yep, purification—the tank was filled with salt water, conders, graphite, sand and what have you. There the Royal Bears gleefully pounced upon the luckless victims and made certain that the healing waters would reach all parts of their unclean bodies by the simple expedient of stepping on their necks and standing on 'em. When only two gasps from the Hospital, they were directed to the ladder and out of the tank there to make their way assisted by a few more bears with sawdust-filled canvas chubs, through a windmill—a long canvas tube—to freedom and full membership in the Ancient and Mysterious Order of Shellbacks. They had "Crossed the Line."

ALL RHEUMATIC PAIN GONE AND STOMACH FINE

"Gly-Cas Proved the Wonder Medicine for Me," Dixon Lady Gratefully States.

"In the 2 months that I have been taking Gly-Cas, I have become practically like a new person, regardless of the fact that when I began taking this wonder medicine I was so crippled with rheumatism that I was only just able to get around the house." Mrs. Mary Du Bois, 713 E. Second St., Dixon, recently said in a remarkable statement to the Gly-Cas Man who is at Campbell's White Cross Pharmacy this city.

"I had been a sufferer from kidney trouble and about 6 months ago, from the poisons all through my system, terrible rheumatism gained a hold on me," continued Mrs. DuBois. "Those sharp pains extended from my back, shoulders and arms down into my hips and limbs. It actually seemed that every joint and muscle in my body was affected. Finally I got so bad I was just able to get around the house with effort—couldn't go up or down stairs or do any walking and every night meant only continual misery for me as I could not rest or sleep."

"People who had taken it, told me about this Gly-Cas and advised me to try it. All the time, however, I had been taking medicines for my suffering but most of them were too strong for my stomach and I consequently had that distress to contend with, too. But oh—your Gly-Cas has proved the wonder medicine for me. In two months' time I have become practically a new woman. The terrible rheumatism has been eliminated from my system so that I am not handicapped in any way now—have as good use of my limbs as ever. I can walk any distance, do my work and simply suffer no more. My stomach has also been wonderfully benefited by Gly-Cas. In short, this wonder medicine has entirely rid me of rheumatism and stomach trouble."

The Gly-Cas Man is at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, Dixon, and is daily meeting the public and explaining this amazing new vegetable medical discovery. Sold Franklin Grove, G. S. Ives; Polo, C. R. Clothier; Ashton, G. R. Charter; Amboy, Aschenbrenner Drug; Compton, W. H. Hills.

Disturbances in Children's Speech

By SANGER BROWN, II, M. D., New York City
Assistant Commissioner
State Department of Mental Hygiene

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. President Coolidge is the honorary president of the Gorgas Memorial, which has headquarters at 400 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago.)

Parents often worry if their child's speech is slow in developing or if he speaks indistinctly. Are their fears well grounded? Let us see how speech develops in the child.

Speech develops gradually, and the child's mistakes in talking are like his unsteadiness when he is learning to walk. Speech, walking, and other co-ordinated movements depend upon the precise functioning of the nervous system in its control over muscles. In the development of this control, variations are common and parents should not worry unduly when there is either some delay or indistinctness of speech in little children.

Stammering is fairly common in children. What is the cause of this condition? Ideas tend to come to young children faster than speech develops to express them. Stammering results. The condition is more marked with fatigue and improves with rest. It may be part of an overwrought state, the same as blinking of the eyes, restless sleep, and quick temper. If this state is treated by rest, possibly removal from school, and other measures, these symptoms, together with the stammering, will generally disappear. Do not scold the child; do not make him conscious of the trouble; at most, encourage him to talk a little more slowly.

With older children who stammer the situation may be different. Here, aside from other reasons, mental conflicts and worries may be the cause. These children require a careful mental and physical survey, preferably in a child guidance clinic. The causes of the difficulty may be physical, but more often they consist of long standing maladjustments either at home or in school or with playmates. A remedy of these disturbing underlying causes is necessary for successful treatment. At the same time may be instituted such breathing exercises and other special measures in speech training as are indicated.

At times, one sees a child in the lower grades in school, who uses very few words and these imperfectly pronounced. Generally such a child has lived in a poor environment and has had few opportunities of hearing proper speech. Association with people who speak properly corrects these conditions.

Indeed, many imperfections of speech, including baby talk, improper enunciation with a harsh, unmodulated voice, so commonly heard, developed through hearing this type of speech in the home, school, or neighborhood. These conditions are overcome by hearing language properly spoken. Very rarely does one see a child with actual defect of the speech organs; hence the outlook for the correction of speech disorders in children is favorable, if the cause is determined and proper remedial measures are instituted.

PARRAKEETS ARE IN GRAVE DANGER OF BEING EXTINCT

Campaign Under Way to Prevent Passing of Foreign Birds

Chicago, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Parrakeets, once plentiful in the American market, are in danger of extinction.

Aviculturists of this country, following the lead of C. T. Metzger of Chicago, realizing the significance of the scarcity of these foreign birds, chiefly from Australia, are co-operating with the Marquess of Tavistock of Havant, England in an attempt to rehabilitate the species. Mr. Metzger has written of it for the August number of The Condor, a magazine of western ornithology.

"Many species," Mr. Metzger found, "especially the Australian parrakeets, that were common twenty years ago, today are never heard of, or at least very seldom and then at prices that are staggering."

"Some four years ago I began an inquiry to learn, if possible, the cause of this decrease. Many letters were exchanged with aviculturists in all parts of the world, and I finally came to the conclusion that, like our own Carolina Parakeet and the Passenger Pigeon, they were fast becoming extinct and that unless steps were taken for preservation, it was only a question of a short time before they would be only a memory."

"While Lord Tavistock and I have so far confined our efforts to preserving a few Australian and Pigeon Island species, we can see no reason why the experiment could not be extended to many of our American species that are fast disappearing. I quote from a recent letter from his Lordship: 'I do not think any country can possess a more priceless scientific treasure than a flourishing breeding stock of interesting and beautiful creatures long vanished from their native haunts and found nowhere else in the world.'"

"Americans have allowed the Passenger Pigeon, the Carolina Parakeet, and the Whooping Crane (the first of which certainly and the last two probably) to disappear, all of which could have been saved in confinement. It would be a fine thing if Americans could make amends for this mistake by saving what other countries are about to lose."

"While the experiment with the Parrakeets has not been a failure by any means, even though no great results can be recorded so far, yet unless more people join us who are able and willing to assume a part of the burden, either in an active capacity, by the donation of birds, or by direct financial assistance, I am afraid all our efforts and Lord Tavistock's outlay will count for nothing."

Mr. Metzger tells that birds supplied by Lord Tavistock have been placed with six different aviculturists. The first birds to reach Chicago from England in 1926 were forwarded to California after a few days rest. Since that time Lord Tavistock has sent over some fifty birds. "All losses," Mr. Metzger said, "whether large or small, are disconcerting, especially when one considers the small available supply of birds and the expenditures involved. Lord Tavistock paid for some species more than three hundred dollars a pair."

Illinois Briefs

Springfield—Revenue stamps adhering to old notes and deeds, affixed during and after the Civil War, between 1862 and 1870, may have a value to collectors, but are not legally obtainable from papers in possession of county and circuit court clerks in Illinois.

This opinion was given State's Attorney Hugh V. Murray of Clinton county by Attorney General Carlstrom in answer to a request from Murray.

A man applied to both the county and circuit clerks in Clinton county. Mr. Murray wrote, with a request that he be permitted to tear revenue stamps from old records. When referred by them to the state's attorney the man said that there had been a ruling that there could be no liability against the clerk if he permitted such action.

"It is a new proposition to me," Mr. Murray wrote, "but the clerks would like to oblige the man, if they can, and they have asked me to refer the matter to you for a decision."

Attorney General Carlstrom's reply was unequivocal. "I know of no authority," he wrote, "under which a clerk or recorder would be permitted to allow the removal of revenue stamps from the files in his office."

Carbondale—Newly elected presidents of the five districts of the Southern Illinois conference of the Epworth League, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, are as follows:

F. F. Otto of Edwardsville, president of the East St. Louis district.

George Hammons, Brownstown, president of the Centralia district.

John Logsdon, Sparta, president of the Carbondale district.

J. E. Skelton, Eldorado, president Mount Carmel district.

Ray Winters, Orlong, president Olney district.

Charleston—A. B. Crowe, chemistry teacher at the state teachers college here, has reported being approached by five different bootleggers for an analysis of their product.

He attributes his popularity to the fact that the only other person in the county known to be capable of analyzing the brew is the son of the sheriff.

Bandit's Toothache Saved Them

Although they were captured by bandits on their last trip, W. H. Mitchell (left) and J. F. Hooper (right), American mining operators, are returning to their properties in Zacatecas, Mexico. They were held for 12 days for ransom under threat of death. Then Rosario Guillem, chief of the band that captured them, developed a toothache and Mitchell fixed it up for him. Guillem freed the men and promised them immunity. Above the two operators are shown with a mine guard. Americans are not allowed to carry arms in Mexico.

J. Davis, dictator-general of the Loyal Order of Moose, has promised to attend at least one day's session of the state Moose convention here Oct. 4-6. Two thousand delegates from every lodge in the state are expected to attend the fall meeting.

Galesburg—For the second time in five years, the city of Galesburg is before the courts defending its system of caring for garbage.

Property owners living near the several-acre dumping ground seek an injunction restraining the city from using the place, charging that it "makes home life unbearable." It is also claimed that stock watering from a creek which runs through the grounds become ill.

Five years ago, residents of another part of the city forced the closing of a new $25,000 incinerator, because of the onerous odor. The circuit court has taken the petition for injunction under advisement and a decision is promised early in September.

Rock Island—Seventy-six posts of the American Legion, including twenty-two from Iowa, have been invited to take part in the district drum and bugle corps contest here Saturday, August 4.

Rock Island—Mayors of four Rock Island county cities will extend welcomes to county officials here at the 42nd annual convention of the state association of Supervisors, County Commissioners, Probate Clerks and County Auditors, August 28-30.

The welcoming mayors will be Chester C. Thompson of Rock Island, Claud W. Sandstrom of Moline, John H. Siefken of East Moline, and W. N. Slovel of Silvis.

The preliminary program includes numerous addresses and discussions by members of the association. Discussions will be led by county representatives as follows:

George Eckert, St. Clair county; Fred Hess, Champaign county; Charles Lowry, Kane county; C. V. Wageman, DuPage county; William Kline, Macon county; Louis Ballard, Green county; Louis J. Gauss, Peoria county; B. G. Galbraith, Kane county; and J. W. Smith, Adams county.

MONUMENT BUILT TO COW THAT BEAT MILK RECORD

Carnation, Wash.—(AP)—A monument to a champion milk cow, Segis Pieter's Prospect, which produced 87 tons of milk in her 12 years of life, was unveiled here recently.

The statue, one-fourth larger than life size, was designed by E. W. Potter, noted animal sculptor, and stands on Carnation farm where the cow was kept. Prospect died of old age in 1925.

Her first record was made in 1920 when she produced 37,381 pounds of milk and 1,448 pounds of butter in 365 days. Her record for two years' production was 72,931 pounds of milk and 2,865 pounds of butter.

During her lifetime it is estimated Prospect produced 174,000 pounds or 81,000 quarts of milk, about 100 times her own weight. The average milk production per cow in the United States is 3,900 pounds or 1,450 quarts a year.

Only two of Prospect's offsprings are living. Her first calf, a bull, is on Carnation farm. A heifer was sold to one of the large breeders in Japan where she is said to be still making good records.

STRONGER BRITISH RULE IN INDIA IS DESIRE OF RAJAH

Petty Prince is Fearful of Result of Home Government

BY HILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer

London—The numberless semi-independent princes of India, whose dominant emotion during the last century has been a smouldering jealousy of their British overlords, are beginning to be right glad they are part of the British empire, after all.

They haven't acquired any sudden love for England. But they are beginning to be afraid of the native agitation for independence and self-government that is sweeping India. So a commission of resplendent, turbaned maharajahs is now in London seeking to strengthen the relationship between his majesty's government and the native thrones of India.

This happens to suit the British too, since native unrest has been a perplexing problem of late. So the present conferences are proceeding with much concord and enthusiasm on both sides.

India is full of small native states ruled by princes. Approximately a fifth of India's vast population, and a third of its area, lies in these states. The princes that rule them are nearly independent. They collect their own taxes, run their domains to suit themselves, keep their own armies and pay little or no attention to the rest of India. Only two restrictions are placed on them; they cannot have foreign relations with any other states or powers, and they cannot go to war. In addition, the British government maintains at most of these courts a sort of unofficial adviser, who makes tactful suggestions that prevent friction.

These native princes have sent four of their number of London to discuss new and stronger relationships between the small states and the British government. These delegates are the well-known Sir Harry Singh, maharajah of Kashmir; the maharajah of Patiala; the maharajah of Nawanagar, better known as Ranji, a cricket player of note; and

Sought Golf Lessons And Got a Husband

When Miss Maythe Mahony of Los Angeles sought a competent golf instructor to improve her game, she found an able teacher and a husband at the same time. Joe Novak, former California state champion and a professional in Los Angeles now, was the other principal in this links romance and the young couple are now happily married. Novak and his wife-golf pupil are shown here.

the nawab of Bhopal.

Specifically, they want these three measures:

1—An Indian states council, composed of the viceroy, two Englishmen, the head of the political department of India and three native princes.

2—A Union council, which should be the supreme executive council for all of India and should consist of the state council and the viceroy's executive council.

3—A court of arbitration, to consist of three judges, appointed by Great Britain, to sit in India permanently and settle suits between native princes and the Indian government regarding princes' treaty rights and hereditary claims.

This does not look very significant to an outsider. Under the surface, however, it means a good deal. The princes are not so much trying to protect their rights against encroachment by the British government as they are trying to ward off the possibility of a wider self-government for the rest of India. The famous Simon commission recently made recommendations for increasing participation by natives in Indian government, and the princes fear that their own rights may be infringed upon if their own subjects are given too many privileges.

Incidentally, drab London gets a touch of color from the presence of these rich princes. They go swanking down Parliament street in their gay turbans and flowing robes, wearing real emeralds for buttons and surrounded by obsequious attendants in bright-colored uniforms.

Dollar A Bushel Corn Price Today

Chicago, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Corn available for September delivery went soaring in price today, and touched as high as $1.00 a bushel, 5c above yesterday's closing quotation. Evidence of increasing demand for corn ready to be used at once was largely responsible for the bulge in September quotations.

Upturns in corn values today were in the face of authoritative estimates that the 1928 corn crop will be 14,000,000 bushels larger than was forecast a month ago. For the most part, however, the new corn crop, will not be in merchantable position until December, and the market today turned upward on account of present scarcity regardless of future abundance.

Highest prices reached today for future deliveries of corn, nevertheless, failed to hold well, the market closing unsettled at a reaction from the top level but at net gains of 3/4c to 3/8c a bushel, with September delivery showing the maximum advance.

HOIST TRUCK TO FIRE

Bridgeport, Conn.—When firemen had difficulty fighting a blaze on the third floor of a garage here, a fire engine was placed on an elevator and taken to the fire, which was then quickly extinguished.

It costs very little to recondition a MODEL T FORD

FOR nearly twenty years, the Model T Ford led the motor industry, and it still is used by more people than any other automobile. More than eight million Model T Fords are in active service today—an indication of their sturdy worth, reliability and economy.

The cost of reconditioning the Model T Ford is small because of the low cost of Ford parts and the established Ford policy of charging all labor at a standard flat rate.

For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have your motor and transmission completely overhauled. This price includes new bearings, reboring cylinders and any other work necessary. Parts are extra.

Valves can be ground and carbon removed for $3 to $4. The cost of tightening all main bearings is only $6. The labor charge for overhauling the front axle is $4.50 to $5—rear axle assembly, $5.75 to $7.

New universal joint will be installed for a labor charge of $3. Brake shoes relined for $1.50. Rear spring and perches rebushed for $1.75. The cost of overhauling the starting motor is $3. A labor charge of approximately $2.50 covers the overhauling of the generator.

Repainting runs from $10 to $25. Taking dents out of body panels and doors runs from $3 to $16 for labor. A fender can be replaced for a labor charge of $1 to $2.50. The cost of fenders runs from $3.50 to $5.

It will pay you, therefore, to see your Ford dealer and have him put your Model T in good running order. By doing so you will protect and maintain the investment you have in your car and get months and years of pleasant, reliable transportation at a very low cost per mile.

Who's Who in Dogdom—No. 14

Rough Collie Began Life Humbly, Tending Sheep

The Rough Collie, without doubt one of the most handsome of all British breeds, started out humbly enough as a sheep dog for Scotch farmers.

Then, Queen Victoria, on one of her first visits to Balmoral, became infatuated with a Collie and the breed was brought into social prominence and has never entirely lost the popularity the queen's favor won for it.

The Collie's ancestry goes back to the sixteenth century. Its name (originally spelled Colley) is derived from the Anglo-Saxon word "Col," meaning "black." This was the dog's original color.

The unscrupulous or ill-informed have spread the story that Collies are treacherous especially with children.

Breeders, however, deny this and claim, on the other hand, that no blooded member of the breed has ever bitten a child.

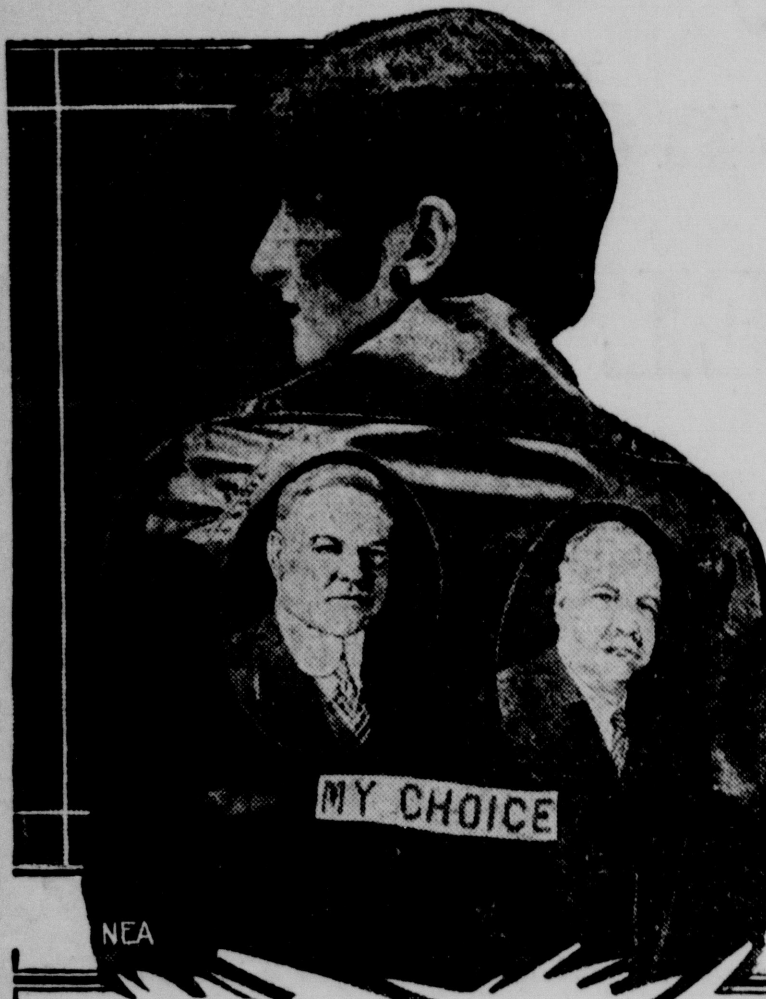

Collies are generally hardy. They thrive in the open and should be reared, as much as possible, in open air, with plenty of exercise and sound, wholesome food.

Hard Coats

Standard dogs of good blood usually reach a weight of between fifty and sixty pounds. Their coats should be dense and of a hard texture. Soft, fluffy-coated Collies are becoming numerous, but are not in the best tradition.

Although a British dog, highly prized a home, some of the world's best Collies are curled up at the feet of American masters.

A Collegiate Campaign Coat

Collegiate slickers are just dandy places to demonstrate how your political affections stand, in the opinion of Miss Carroll Wells of Kansas City, University of Kansas co-ed. She is a 100 per cent Republican, and has put these stickers on the back of her raincoat so that everyone can know her position.

Here's The Stowaway Lover

Frank Hussey just had to go to the Olympic games. He wanted to go as a sprinter, but when he failed to qualify for the team he simply stowed away on the liner before it left New York. Here he is shown, left, with Captain Van Beek of the President Roosevelt as the ship reached England. The reason for Hussey's determination is pictured below in the person of Miss Agnes Geraghty, Olympic swimmer, for whom, 'tis said he entertained no little regard. And so, even in the matter-of-fact world of sports, love found a way.

They arrived safely at Sher-rard's. And Marco was hungry so they took a secluded table and dined without dancing. While they awaited the hors d'oeuvre he offered Bertie Lou another cocktail. She did not refuse so Marco poured the drinking water back into the jar and added the cocktails to the ice that was left in the glasses.

Bertie Lou was not accustomed to drinking. The gin she had taken at the apartment was the first she had tasted since her sudden departure for Wayville. And it was after nine o'clock now—nothing to eat since a bit of salad at lunch. Still, she did not feel that drink—the fresh air had overcome its effect.

The orchestra was playing a sentimental waltz. It was too sad to be endured. Bertie Lou wanted to be gay. She drank the second cocktail in Marco's manner—all at once.

"Let's dance," she pleaded, but Marco said no. Said he wouldn't until he'd had something to eat. The food was served but Bertie Lou was now no longer in the mood for leaving the table. There was a curious numbness in her finger tips and she felt as if her clothing was all that held her up.

"You'd better eat something," Marco advised, watching her as she pushed the third plate away. He didn't want her to feel her drinks too much. A girl who had to be dragged around the dance floor was a flat tire as far as he was concerned. He liked "em peppy. They could get "half-fit" if they wanted to, but he objected to having them pass out entirely.

Bertie Lou wouldn't eat so he didn't order anything to drink. After dinner they drove again for an hour and then returned to the dance. When Marco wanted a drink he went out to the bar and got it. Until Bertie reprimanded him. It was one o'clock. The place would close at two. Marco ordered highballs, but Bertie Lou surprised him. She drank only half of hers.

Nothing could make her gay. She knew that. No use making herself sick with stuff she didn't want. She'd broken that silly promise to Rod. That was all she wanted to do. Now she would see if he cared of fear on her countenance.

"You're a nervy girl," he complimented her. "I hate squealers." "Go as fast as you like," Bertie Lou told him.

But Marco was through. He didn't dare get another ticket. Neither did he want an accident. His father's ultimatum, delivered in dead earnest just before he sailed for Europe a few weeks since, had left Marco duly impressed.
